STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The sound regulation of securities markets is imperative as such markets are instrumental for effective mobilization of capital for productive investments, wealth creation and protection of investors' confidence.

2. The extant laws relating to the securities markets are primarily (i) the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956 (42 of 1956) enacted to prevent undesirable transactions in securities by regulating the business of dealings therein; (ii) the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 (15 of 1992) providing for the establishment of the Securities and Exchange Board of India (the "Board") as the primary regulator for the securities markets to protect the interests of investors in securities and to promote the development of, and to regulate, the securities market; and (iii) the Depositories Act, 1996 (22 of 1996) that provides for regulation of depositories in securities. As these laws were enacted decades ago, a review was required to reform the extant legislative framework to align with the evolving regulatory practices, latest developments in technology and the changing character of securities markets.

3. The Securities Markets Code, 2025 seeks to repeal the aforesaid three Acts, rationalises and consolidates the existing provisions and provides a modern regulatory framework for investor protection and capital mobilisation at a scale commensurate with the emerging needs of the fast-growing Indian economy. The Code endeavours to build a principle based legislative framework to reduce compliance burden, improve regulatory governance and enhance dynamism of the technology driven securities markets. The language of the Code has been simplified to remove obsolete and redundant concepts, to duplication of provisions and incorporate consistent regulatory procedures for standard processes, and to ensure a uniform and streamlined framework of Securities Laws. The Code is expected to further develop the financial sector in general and securities markets in particular and make India self-reliant in terms of mobilising capital for productive investment.

4. The Code seeks to strengthen the regulatory mechanism of the "Board" by providing a transparent and consultative process for issuing any subordinate legislation. It also requires periodic review of such regulations for their proportionate and effective implementation and regulatory impact assessment studies. The Code seeks to eliminate conflict of interest by requiring the Members of the "Board" to disclose any "direct or indirect" interest while participating in decision-making. It enables the "Board" to maintain a reserve fund and transfer the surplus, if any, to the Consolidated Fund of India. It streamlines the adjudication procedure and ensures that all quasi-judicial actions are undertaken through a single adjudication process after an appropriate fact-finding exercise. The Code maintains an arm's length separation between inspection or investigation and adjudication proceedings and defines timelines for investigations and interim orders for a time-bound completion of the enforcement process.

5. As a significant progressive step, the Code decriminalises certain contraventions of minor, procedural and technical nature into civil penalties to facilitate the ease of doing business and to reduce the compliance burden. The civil penalties are anchored to unlawful gains or losses caused with a view to ensure appropriate and adequate response to the gravity of the contraventions. It promotes standardisation in quantifying unlawful gains and losses to investors and fosters objectivity in undertaking enforcement actions like penalty imposition. However, punishment for market abuse is provided to deter persons from committing contraventions that adversely affect the market integrity. Further, the Code provides restriction period for initiating inspection or investigation to avoid delayed enforcement measures.

6. The Code further seeks to strengthen investor protection, promote investor education and awareness, and ensure effective and time-bound redressal of investor grievances. It enables effective and prompt resolution of investor grievances by introducing the concept of an Ombudsperson as a comprehensive platform for redressal of any unresolved grievances. The Code also enables the Board to establish a Regulatory Sandbox to facilitate innovation in financial products, contracts and services. Furthermore, an enabling framework is established for the inter-regulatory coordination of other regulated instruments to facilitate a seamless process for listing of such instruments.

7. The Code also proposes to amend the Economic Offences (Inapplicability of Limitation) Act, 1974 (12 of 1974), the Prevention of Money-laundering Act, 2002 (15 of 2003), the Fugitive Economic Offenders Act, 2018 (17 of 2018) and the Mediation Act, 2023 (32 of 2023) in the manner provided in the Schedules annexed to the Code.

8. The Notes on Clauses explain in detail the various provisions contained in the Bill.
